

I am disgusted that the FCC would consider lowering the level of protection television stations are already accountable to hold for families. The levels right now are only okay, when it comes to sexually suggestive content. You are responsible to the American public to uphold a level of excellence and decency on the airwaves. This consideration of lowering the levels of expectations is not acceptable. Our children are exposed to enough at it is on television.